JOHNNY WONDER

JAMIE KUBINE, OF CRESTVIEW HILLS, KY., WINS A PRIZE FOR THIS QUESTION.
© 1979 United Feature Syndicate, Inc. To Reg. U.S. Pat. & Tm. Off. 12/79

A. If a tight shoe rubs against a toe or heel, a little bubble filled with a watery fluid may form under the skin. This is a blister. Blisters are usually caused by burns or friction, such as from the continuous chafing of the skin. The fluid in a blister is called "lymph." Whenever you are burned or bruised, the lymph fluid flows out and covers the injured spot with a protective coating. It also helps to destroy any germs that may be in the wound. Since the covering of a blister protects the tissues beneath it from infections, it is better to leave a blister unbroken.
You can win a World Almanac if your question is selected. Send your name and age to JOHNNY WONDER, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1384, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
